Program teaches students the don'ts

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

Students in various Romulus elementary schools are being treated to a special learning program, courtesy of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Romulus Police Department.

Officer Aaron Vincent of the Community Service Office of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department has been involved in the program since its inception nearly two years ago. His specialty is working with the youngest children in the "Don't Go With Strangers" portion of the agenda.

"I love it, I really do," says Vincent, "and I truly believe that it helps the children to become more aware of potential problems they may have. In fact, it's our most popular program."

"Using the puppet, hiding myself behind a screen, my first question to the kids is always 'what is a policeman? What does a policeman do?' And I get answers that are incredible! Some may say things like 'they catch robbers' or 'they shoot people.' But usually one will say 'they help people', and then we talk about it, and I explain the role of police officers — that we're there to help people anytime they need it."

According to Vincent, many of the children have a fear of police officers that he tries to help them overcome. "As an example, sometimes when I'm in a restaurant, wearing my uniform, I'll be sitting near a family and one of the children may be acting up. The parents may say something like 'If you don't be good I'll tell that policeman on you', and that only serves to instill a fear of police in the children."

"Often, I'll go up to the parents and say 'Please don't say that, because if your children are ever in trouble, you want them to be able to go to a policeman, not be afraid of them'."

"They'll usually think about that and agree, it's just that they never thought of it like that before."

Other questions asked the children are "What is a stranger?" and "What does a stranger look like?"

Officer Vincent, Officer Ollie, the puppet, and the rest will be at Barth Elementary in Romulus on Friday.

Mayor pleased over meeting with automaker

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus city officials and representatives recently were the first community relations group to meet with officials from General Motors regarding the location of the much-coveted Saturn plant, according to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

While she claimed the meeting was a success in one sense, McAnally admitted to city council last week that her impression after talking to Governor James Blanchard about the project was that it was doubtful, not only for Romulus, but for Michigan. Sources in Lansing confirmed that it now appears "highly unlikely" that the auto plant will be built in Michigan "due to the high taxes and workman's compensation rates."

"We are very pleased with the results of our meeting with the people from General Motors, and they appeared to be impressed with Romulus as well," said McAnally. "We had graphic and verbal demonstrations, and they asked to keep our graphic material, which showed some definite interest in the city.

"We were more than happy to comply."

"Essentially what they told us," McAnally said, "was that 'whether or not Saturn locates in Romulus, you've got quite a good community there'. My impression was that they will be keeping Romulus in mind for future projects, if the Saturn project goes elsewhere."

McAnally expressed her surprise — and delight — at learning that Romulus was the first community to make such a presentation.

"When you consider how vocal some other communities have been, setting up public relations groups months ago and announcing them, and how relatively quiet we were... well, it was a pleasant shock."

With numerous states looking to land the Saturn project, General Motors is expected to make an official announcement in the next three to four weeks on the location of the plant.

Vandalism found at other city parks

Vandalism at city parks was widespread in 1984, according to a report submitted to the Romulus City Council and Mayor Beverly McAnally by Recreation Director Debbie Dick.

According to Dick, expenses were in excess of $5,258 for the year.

"We have incurred other damage ... such as fence posts broken, the park sign ripped down and fencing destroyed," she noted.

Included in the total were $1,169 for the restroom facility at Elmer Johnson Park, which was, according to council, completely destroyed, prompting speculation that when the new facilities were put in, they would be unbreakable stainless steel ones.

"We just don't have the funds to put things back up only to have them torn down or destroyed again," Dick said. "It's very frustrating to think that we work hard to make the parks nice places for not only kids, but also adults, to enjoy, and a few people ruin it."

Dick added that "the problems are not just located at Kennedy Park, but we are having problems city-wide with the destruction of city facilities."

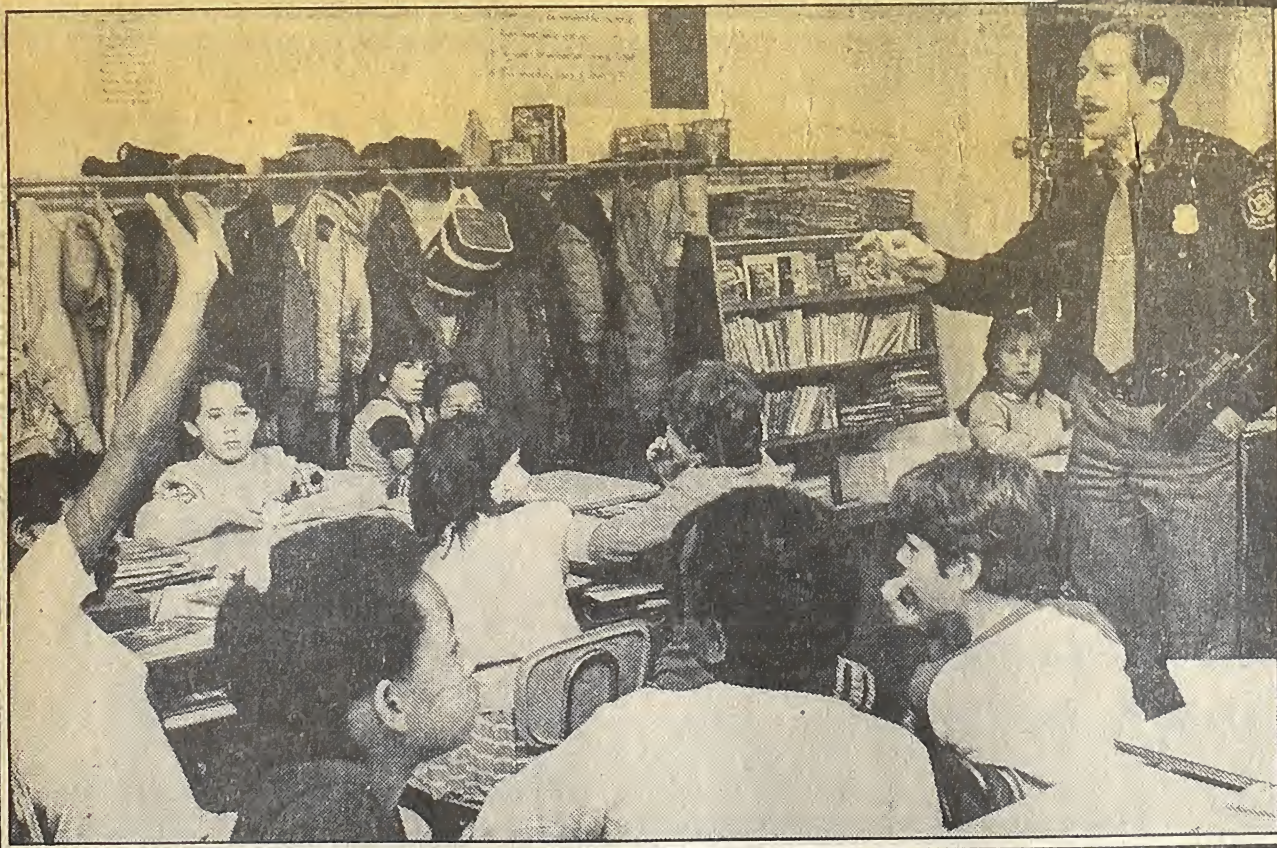

"The problem with loitering, drinking and drug exchange is not only happening at Kennedy (before the park was closed), but we are getting groups loitering at Merriman Park, Fernandez, Park #1 and Elmer Johnson, when those parks are open," Dick said.

Currently, a special board made up of members from the city council, the recreation committee, Mayor Beverly McAnally and Police Chief Donald Flood is examining the problems with the misuse and destruction of park property.

At its Jan. 7 meeting, City Council voted to temporarily close down Kennedy Park because of alleged underage drinking and drug selling and use. The park will be reopened only after council receives recommendations from the task force, which will be looking for solutions to the problems, according to some members of city council.

At last week's council meeting, Dick had submitted a memorandum for consideration by McAnally and the council to "recommend the re-opening of Kennedy Park, but eliminate the parking completely until the committee has had time to meet and make their recommendations."

No action was taken.

A case of race?

Employees charge firm with discrimination

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Special Writer

It won't be until sometime in April until nine employees of the Kerr Division of Sybron Corporation find out if they will regain a sense of legitimacy and belonging in their work place.

The group is involved in a lawsuit charging the Romulus-based firm with discrimination in its disciplinary and discharge procedures.

A hearing in the lawsuit was scheduled for Feb. 14, but was postponed until April, according to attorney Gary Benjamin, who is representing Tim Jackson of Inkster, a 6½-year employee of Kerr.

The hearing will be the first skirmish in a two-year long battle Jackson has been waging against the company, a manufacturer of dental instruments. The case is scheduled to be heard in U.S. District Court before Judge Ralph Guy.

The combatants include not only Jackson, but Al Thomas of Westland, Delores Post of Belleville and several Detroit residents.

Glen Corson, vice-president of human resources and spokesman for the company, said that the suit "... is a broad reaching one in terms of the broad allegations directed against the company."

Due to the nature of the allegations, company officials, including Corson, declined to comment further on the case.

Jackson's lawyer, Gary Benjamin of the law firm of Shrauger and Dunn, who besides Jackson, represents nine Kerr-Sybron employees in the suit looks for several aspects of relief from the court.

First, he said, they will seek monetary compensation in an amount "in excess of $10,000" and "some sort of monitoring procedure for disciplinary action for black and white employees by the company."

They will seek also a court-appointed person to watch over the company.

The major thrust of the case, according to Benjamin, is that the dental plant "is a bad place for blacks to work."

What follows after the hearing will, in effect, determine the legitimacy of these claims and prove whether the company demonstrates fair working practices mandated by law.

Jackson, who works as a machinist in the lowest classification at the company, doesn't appreciate the way the company treats its black employees and said working practices, in his view, are heavily disproportionate.

Benjamin, who has a leading reputation for handling minority discrimination suits, feels that the plant radiates a "harmful racial atmosphere" and cites numerous incidents, including the display of Nazi literature on the employee bulletin board, as evidence.

"A lot of the complaints (of his clients) seem picky, but when you put in the context of the plant," he said, "what they're really saying is that it's a pain in the butt to work there."

The company, headquartered in Rochester, New York, has been located in Romulus since 1969, according to Corson.

It began as a Detroit-based firm, in 1891.

Benjamin said Kerr-Sybron hired its first black employee in 1964, just about the time many companies were re-evaluating their stance on racial hiring.

"The hiring data looks fairly clean — they've corrected some things as far as promotions, transfers and shift bumpings, things which are really set in the contract," he admitted.

The problem lies in the discharge and disciplinary practices of the company.

Of the more than 200 people employed at the Romulus division, according to Benjamin, (company officials refused to release exact data) "three quarters of the time, you're going to find that the employees given time off are black."

It is the disciplinary procedures, which left to the discretion of the supervisors, ultimately harms black employees, he said.

He recited one incident where white and black employees worked through their break and subsequently left

CHIROPRACTIC OUTLOOK

By Dr. Thomas Anderson

CREAKY LIMBS

Feel tied up in knots? Stiff muscles ache when you get out of bed? Joints feel tight when you move your arms and legs? Such creakiness may be Nature's warning that your body is misaligned and congested.

Your doctor of chiropractic treats your whole body without surgery or chemicals. Gentle manipulation can correct the cause of your stiffness. Better nerve function can be quickly restored. Stiffness is erased. Mobility is restored.

Most nerve-joint-muscle-skeletal congestion can be traced to a subluxated vertebra which blocks or short circuits the conduction of nerve impulses through a normally balanced spine. Chiropractic treatments help adjust the displaced vertebra, remove nerve pressure, restore functional and organic health.

A brush with death

By TOM MOORADIAN

If it were not for 11-year-old Karen Sobolewski this story may have had a tragic ending.

And most of the dailies and wire services would have played it up if not on the front page, their third pages where most of the local news is.

The story involves a close encounter with death.

The story would have been about 4-year-old Michel Sobolewski ... how he got one of those mammoth "jawbreakers" lodged in his wind pipe and died by suffocation.

But thanks to Karen and a teacher, Pat Richards, at the Middle School in Belleville, Michael is alive today.

The drama as told by Karen's father and mother, Edward and Nancy Sobolewski of Van Buren Township began Saturday evening about 8:30 p.m. The Sobolewskis had planned to attend Edward's class reunion. They hired a babysitter and all was going according to plan.

After they left, sometime during the evening, Michael got himself a "jawbreaker", one of those huge pieces of hard candy that kids love.

But this jawbreaker almost proved fatal. It became lodged in the child's throat.

"Michael ran to his sister and pointed to his throat," Mr. Sobolewski related. "The babysitter looked at Karen and Karen returned the look. They were in dismay, and didn't know what to do.

"Michael began turning red. Karen realized that there was little time to call for help. She remembered one of those life-saving techniques she had learned in class, grabbed her brother from behind, and placed her arm under his diaphragm and managed to apply pressure, forcing the object out of his throat.

Mrs. Sobolewski, shaken by the story, was pleased that Karen had listened and learned her lesson well.

"We're extremely proud of her," she said. "I can't believe what happened but I thank God it ended the way it did.

"And, needless to say, we're very happy and thankful to Mrs. Richards over at the Middle School for teaching our daughter and the class.

"Oh, God, I don't want to even think of what would have happened if Karen had not been home that night."

Huron takes a stand on PCHA

Trustees vote to abolish members-at-large

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

Huron Township has joined other member communities of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) in approving a resolution to abolish the seven members-at-large on the PCHA board of directors.

Township superintendent Ralph Dugan said he favored the move as a way to "expedite the sale of the hospitals."

Several outstate firms have expressed interest in purchasing the five area PCHA hospitals, which would then be operated as for-profit institutions, eliminating taxpayer support of the hospital facilities.

According to Dugan, the seven members-at-large, who do not represent any particular community as do the other 40 members of the PCHA board, control many influential committees and boards and could possibly sway votes away from accepting purchase bids.

Other board members concurred with Gary Bates stating "I'd venture to say that those seven people are as influential or more influential than the members who represent communities like ours."

Huron Township's PCHA representative, Jim Tillotson, told the board that "the legislature and the UAW have gone on record against for-profit hospitals. I don't think I'm choosing up sides."

"I am committed to vote in favor of openly receiving any bids that come in," Tillotson said. "I have my own personal views, but I am committed to representing the people of Huron Township and that's what I'll do."

In January, the township board, who selected Tillotson, directed him to vote to accept and receive all bids concerning the sale of the hospitals. Tillotson voted against the township board's wishes, as the PCHA board voted 27 to 10 (with 10 absent) not to accept bids.

According to Dugan, "we (the township board) were more than a little unhappy about that. We had a special meeting and told him in no uncertain terms we wanted him to do everything possible to work towards a sale."

Dugan said that by his accounts, "20 out of the 24 communities want to sell. Some of the people are afraid that if they're sold, they'll lose their hospital, but that isn't so. A hospital room in Nashville owned by the Hospital Corporation of America, one of the firms interested in our hospitals, cost about $125 a day. Here, it's well over 1300. And the level of care is very good."

Dugan went on to say that abolishing the at-large members is critical if there is to be even a possibility of a sale, since "the seven usually vote in a block, and always very pro-PCHA."

He said he expects other communities to follow the action of Huron Township and also adopt a resolution to abolish the seven at-large members. The motion passed.

The local PCHA hospitals are Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, Heritage Hospital in Taylor, Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park and Seaway Hospital in Trenton.

Ouch

Romulus police officers had an identifiable object soar through space recently when a speeding car literally flew into one of their scout cars. Police stopped, with flasher beams on, at an accident scene on Van Born near the Romulus/Wayne border, when the car came flying over the slight hill and railroad tracks that leads into the Detroit Diesel plant in Romulus. "No doubt about it. It was airborne," said a dejected Romulus Police Chief Donald Flood. "Fortunately no one was injured."

Opportunity-Van Buren

Schools receive unique gifts

Van Buren public school instructors, grades 5 and 6, will each receive an unusual gift.

Kittie Davies, vice president of the GFWC Belleville Area Intermediate Study Club, presented the Van Buren Board of Education with 45 copies of the game "Opportunity Van Buren" at the last meeting of the Board of Education.

The gift was made possible by the local members of the study club.

In her presentation, Mrs. Davies outlined several possible educational uses for the game which is based upon the Parker brothers' famous Monopoly game. In "Opportunity", students "buy" and "sell" local businesses, such as Hamilton hardware and National Bank of Detroit, rather than the traditional Board Walk, Park Place and other familiar names.

"The game could be utilized as a basis for a course in local economics, or as a lead-in to an explanation of merchandising techniques," Mrs. Davies explained. "Students could use the game as a model to design a similar game of their own."

"Opportunity-Van Buren" was originally designed and created as a joint effort of the Van Buren Township Historic District Study Commission and the GFWC Belleville Area Intermediate Study Club. Proceeds from the sale of the game were used to finance three State of Michigan Historical Site Markers in the township and the area.

According to Davies, a similar presentation will be made to the fifth and sixth grade instructors at St. Anthony's School in Belleville.

Copies of the game were also furnished for each school media-library center.

Any person desiring more information about "Opportunity-Van Buren" or the projects and programs of the GFWC Belleville Area Intermediate Study Club should contact club president Gloria Gardner at 697-9209.

dan's dogs

by dan a. morris

our hand with his mouth we will drop the object of play and the winner of the tug-of-war is, you guessed it, the dog!

Round No. 2: We soon find that our new playmate has razor-sharp teeth. Even after several playful bites of our hand we still continue to wrestle and tease the dog until we cannot tolerate additional bites. The dog is growing more and more aggressive and Round 2 goes to the dog again ... the first step toward becoming a "fear biter".

Not learning from experience, the owner's strong urge to continue wrestling and teasing remains! But now we get smart and pull our hand away from our four-legged "piranha," who is now in full charge. With this additional victory, the dog starts to growl and show its teeth to gain possession of the article. Each victory won by the dog builds more and more confidence and encourages that strong aggressive instinct to take its natural course — becoming the leader of the pack (meaning the head of the house ... your house). Now that we've done the damage, what do we do to correct

The home environment is the cause of most biting dogs. The average dog owner is not aware that he is the cause of the biting problem. When the new dog is introduced to the home the first means of play usually begin with the puppy on the floor roughhousing (wrestling and teasing) with the owner.

Round No. 1: By roughhousing with the new puppy we teach it two instant means of communication: use of its front feet and use of its mouth. During this roughhousing the dog uses his feet to gain attention by jumping on his master and swinging his legs playfully. The mouthing is taught and seemingly encouraged by the master pulling and teasing the puppy with an old sock or a toy — usually the first object introduced to the puppy when we bring it home. The dog learns, eventually, that by reaching for it?

Every dog owner thinks such puppy actions are cute or amusing until the meek and mild companion starts adding more body weight and power to his challenge of aggression in his play. Do we realize now that our cute little puppy is now backing up his act of aggression, (which we taught it, by letting it attack us and others)? This aggression adds additional problems to the home environment. When visitors arrive, the dog believes the people are there for his personal entertainment and starts jumping on our friends and attacking their pant legs, nylons, etc. The dog is at the height of his glory, thinking, "Move and I'll attack".

We assume we'll solve this problem by isolating the dog in the basement, backyard or behind closed doors. This procedure seems to work until the dog is isolated so long that only with the immediate family will he feel friendly and relaxed. To all others he shows signs of aggression. Now we realize we're in deep trouble. But why?

To give you an understanding of why your dog responds so negatively to isolation or wrestling you first have to understand the olfactory nerve (the sense of smell) and how it functions. I think we have all experienced trying to correct our dog and before we utter a word, the dog scurries out of the room. How many times have you been sitting in your easy chair thinking you'd go to the store and before you get up the dog is waiting by the door as if to say, "I want to go, too." This reaction can be explained by the olfactory nerve. The dog uses his sense of smell, as you or I use our eyes and ears, to evaluate situations or people. Therefore, when we wrestle with our dog he senses the exact point when you are ready to give in. As a matter of fact, your dog knows everything you are going to do before you do it, because with every emotion that we have we secrete a degree of body odor. Three cliches summarize our entire opinions: (1) "The dog is as good as you. You're as good as your dog;" (2) "The dog you have is the dog you deserve;" and (3) "The dog worth owning is a dog worth training."

Business group receives parks association honor

The Romulus Central Business District Association (RCBDA) has been selected to receive a 1984 Community Service Award from the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association.

Space age schools

According to Romulus resident Kristine Detroyer, "Our children must be continuously exposed to new technology, if they are expected to achieve more greatly than we have. The support of Romulus taxpayers has allowed our schools to implement some fabulous computer programs as well as to restore other programs which had been previously cut."

"To date, our schools have purchased nearly 200 computers to be used in various buildings for numerous purposes. "The junior and senior highs have begun a three-phase computer program in which computer literacy will first be acquired. Then, computers will be used to supplement instruction. There are future plans to utilize computer instruction.

At the elementary level, three Computer Specialists have been hired to introduce a Computer Enrichment Program. Thirty-six computers, equipment and supplies are available among the six elementary schools. There are plans to expand this program as funds become available.

"Many valuable classes and programs have been restored since the millage was passed last year. Our elementaries again offer Physical Education, Art and Music. They also have librarians to show how to utilize the vast resources of a library. Our schools are back to a six-hour day. The junior high has added courses in art, computers, communications and study skills. Intra-mural and Varsity Sports have returned as a much valued part of school.

"It is essential that we provide the incentive for our children to achieve in school. If we do not provide that incentive by way of challenge, new experience, and plain old ordinary fun, then how can we expect an abundance of intellectual growth from our children?" Detroyer said.

tion. They were one of 17 service organizations in Michigan selected to be honored out of more than 130 nominees.

The RCBDA was nominated by Parks and Recreation Director Debbie Dick "for their outstanding contribution and work toward the development of a Senior Citizen's Park," a project also strived for by Dick's predecessor, Dennis Davidson, now Romulus community relations director.

The park is located behind the senior drop-in center on Bibbins Street.

The award was presented Monday, Feb. 4, at the yearly MRPA convention, which was held at the Renaissance Center. A few of the "big names" that were present were Tom Monahan (famed pizza magnate and now owner of the World Champion Detroit Tigers, and one of the few men to actually make a pizza on "Late Night With David Letterman"), Mike Reilly, Steve Frazer (Olympic gold medalist) and United States triathlon champion, Beth Mitchell.

Award winner

Discipline starts at home

They say kids do the darndest things. They also succumb to peer pressure unfortunately and the result can be a dangerous set of circumstances.

Such is the case with Franklin Junior High School students in Wayne, who reportedly have invented a new game of "chicken" to prove their courage. It seems that youngsters wait for the light to change at an intersection and then purposefully cross against the traffic.

The game recently spread to the congested intersection of Venoy and Annapolis before school administrators were made aware of the activity. Since reports of the dangerous scheme became public, school officials have moved quickly to try to correct the situation.

Now there is no reason to believe that students at Franklin are any different from students anywhere else. They aren't. Students at the junior high level find themselves at an awkward stage of development; their feelings of rebelliousness and insecurity are understandable.

But what happens when the challenge to authority or the need for attention gets out of hand? As with the game at Franklin, the offshoot of immaturity leads to trouble, possibly disaster if not checked.

And who is responsible for the actions of young students? That responsibility rests first and foremost with the students themselves and their parents.

Power play is disruptive

Enough is enough. The power struggle occurring among factions on the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) board of directors threatens to undermine the effectiveness of the five hospitals operated by the Authority.

It appears that the board of directors is travelling on a roller coaster of controversy. The latest pitfall centers on the role of the seven members-at-large on the 47-member board. Some communities want to see the members-at-large eliminated; others feel that this system of representation has served the Authority well.

The members-at-large question, however, is secondary to the primary source of disagreement on the board — the possible sale of the publicly-owned hospitals to a private, for-profit corporation. The majority of board members oppose such a sale but dissidents persist in attempting to convince their colleagues and member communities of the merits of such a sale.

We believe the time has come to get the taxpayer involved in the questions facing the Young teenagers have passed the age of reason and certainly know the difference between right and wrong. The lessons of discipline and accountability for one's actions must be taught and nurtured in the home. To look to the school as a primary source of such an education is to ignore the importance of the family unit in the shaping of morals and all behavioral traits.

Yes, kids will act like kids. They will challenge authority, disobey rules and regulations and even break the law at times.

Parents must understand their responsibilities and take an active interest in the lives of their children. They certainly must not think they can transfer such responsibility to a teacher or other authority figure.

Other students also can exert a positive influence by applying a sort of reverse peer pressure on those who would act in an immature manner. We believe most students to be fine individuals who act responsibly — these youngsters must actively try to convince the so-called "bad apples" of the errors of their ways. It won't be easy but peer pressure can be as powerful as parental guidance.

While we expect a measure of discipline to originate in the schools, we see the classroom as merely a backup to the role of the parents. To expect the school system to babysit youngsters during the daylight hours is a naive approach to child rearing.

PCHA. After all, it is the taxpayer who is helping to subsidize the PCHA, including the health care provided locally at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, one of five PCHA hospitals.

Overall, we feel the PCHA has done a creditable job in providing quality health care at a reasonable cost. We fear, however, that the recent turmoil threatens to take the PCHA off the course for which it was intended, namely to offer such health care through a non-profit organization.

More public input is needed on the issue of public versus private ownership of PCHA facilities. The 24-member communities whose tax dollars help subsidize the PCHA must aggressively launch a program designed to educate citizens on the functions of the PCHA and to solicit public response on the ownership question.

The month-to-month disagreements on the overall direction of the PCHA should be addressed once and for all. Once the public has spoken, hopefully the issues and disruptions can be put to rest.

Herb's Style

One of the most puzzling phenomena I have encountered in my lifetime is the disparity between the business and personal lives of certain individuals.

To take this line of thinking a step further, I have long wrestled with the moral and ethical questions resulting from subscribing to values and principles on a personal level which are difficult at best to hold true in day-to-day business decision making.

In the business world those who endeavor to uphold Christian principles or principles of any other moral persuasion can find themselves trampled into the ground by the not-so-Christian sharks and vermin one sometimes encounters in the corporate environs.

There seems to be an abundance of folks who, when you "turn the other cheek," are quite willing to bruise that one for you as well. They look at Christian morality as naivete, and assume that those afflicted with such an attitude are innocent fools who deserve to be taken advantage of.

In my youth, like nearly all of us, I observed a lot of people, and chose role models on which to pattern myself. I was always amazed by a close personal and professional friend of my father's, Herb Styles.

Herb and my father, many years ago, both worked for Lee Beard at a weekly newspaper circulated within the City of Detroit. The paper was called the "Detroit Westward," and Herb worked in production while my Dad sold advertising. They went their separate ways for a time, but eventually they were reunited in a business relationship years after "Detroit Westward" had met its demise. My father became co-publisher of Associated Newspapers and Herb was president of PAK Printers in Detroit.

At that time, PAK was THE place to have your newspaper typeset and printed. Many of the biggest names in publishing flocked there to be produced by the "best shop" in town, Associated among them.

Anyway, enough reminiscence, the point is that Herb held firm to his Christian beliefs. He was a practicing Christiadelphian — a sect not well known to many, but best described as a fundamentalist group.

Herb believed in speaking up for his faith and principles. Often, when an opportunity presented itself, he would inject ... well, a sermonette, into an otherwise very businesslike conversation. He had a way about him that rarely made even the most devout heathen, cynic or liar uncomfortable.

My young eyes observed a number of these and other revealing encounters. Herb also practiced his principles with his checkbook. Over and over, repeatedly, he trusted people, loaned them money, granted them credit, and then extended the credit terms if the original conditions weren't met. He was "burned" more often than anyone should be. Herb, to be sure, was human, and those whom he trusted and who then took advantage of him no doubt made him less trusting — but it rarely showed.

Herb was always a realist and an inviolable philosopher when he would speak of his business battle wounds. He would remain upbeat, chipper and determined to do good works and trust others. Therefore, he remained vulnerable to the business "sharpies" he often dealt with in the arena of commerce.

Herb is older now, and retired in Florida where he is suffering some serious health problems. Herb Styles remains to this day a man I will always look up to as a model of the way I want to live my life.

I often wonder how one can possibly maintain an open, caring and trusting nature when so often confronted by piranha of all

Personal benefit

To the Editor:

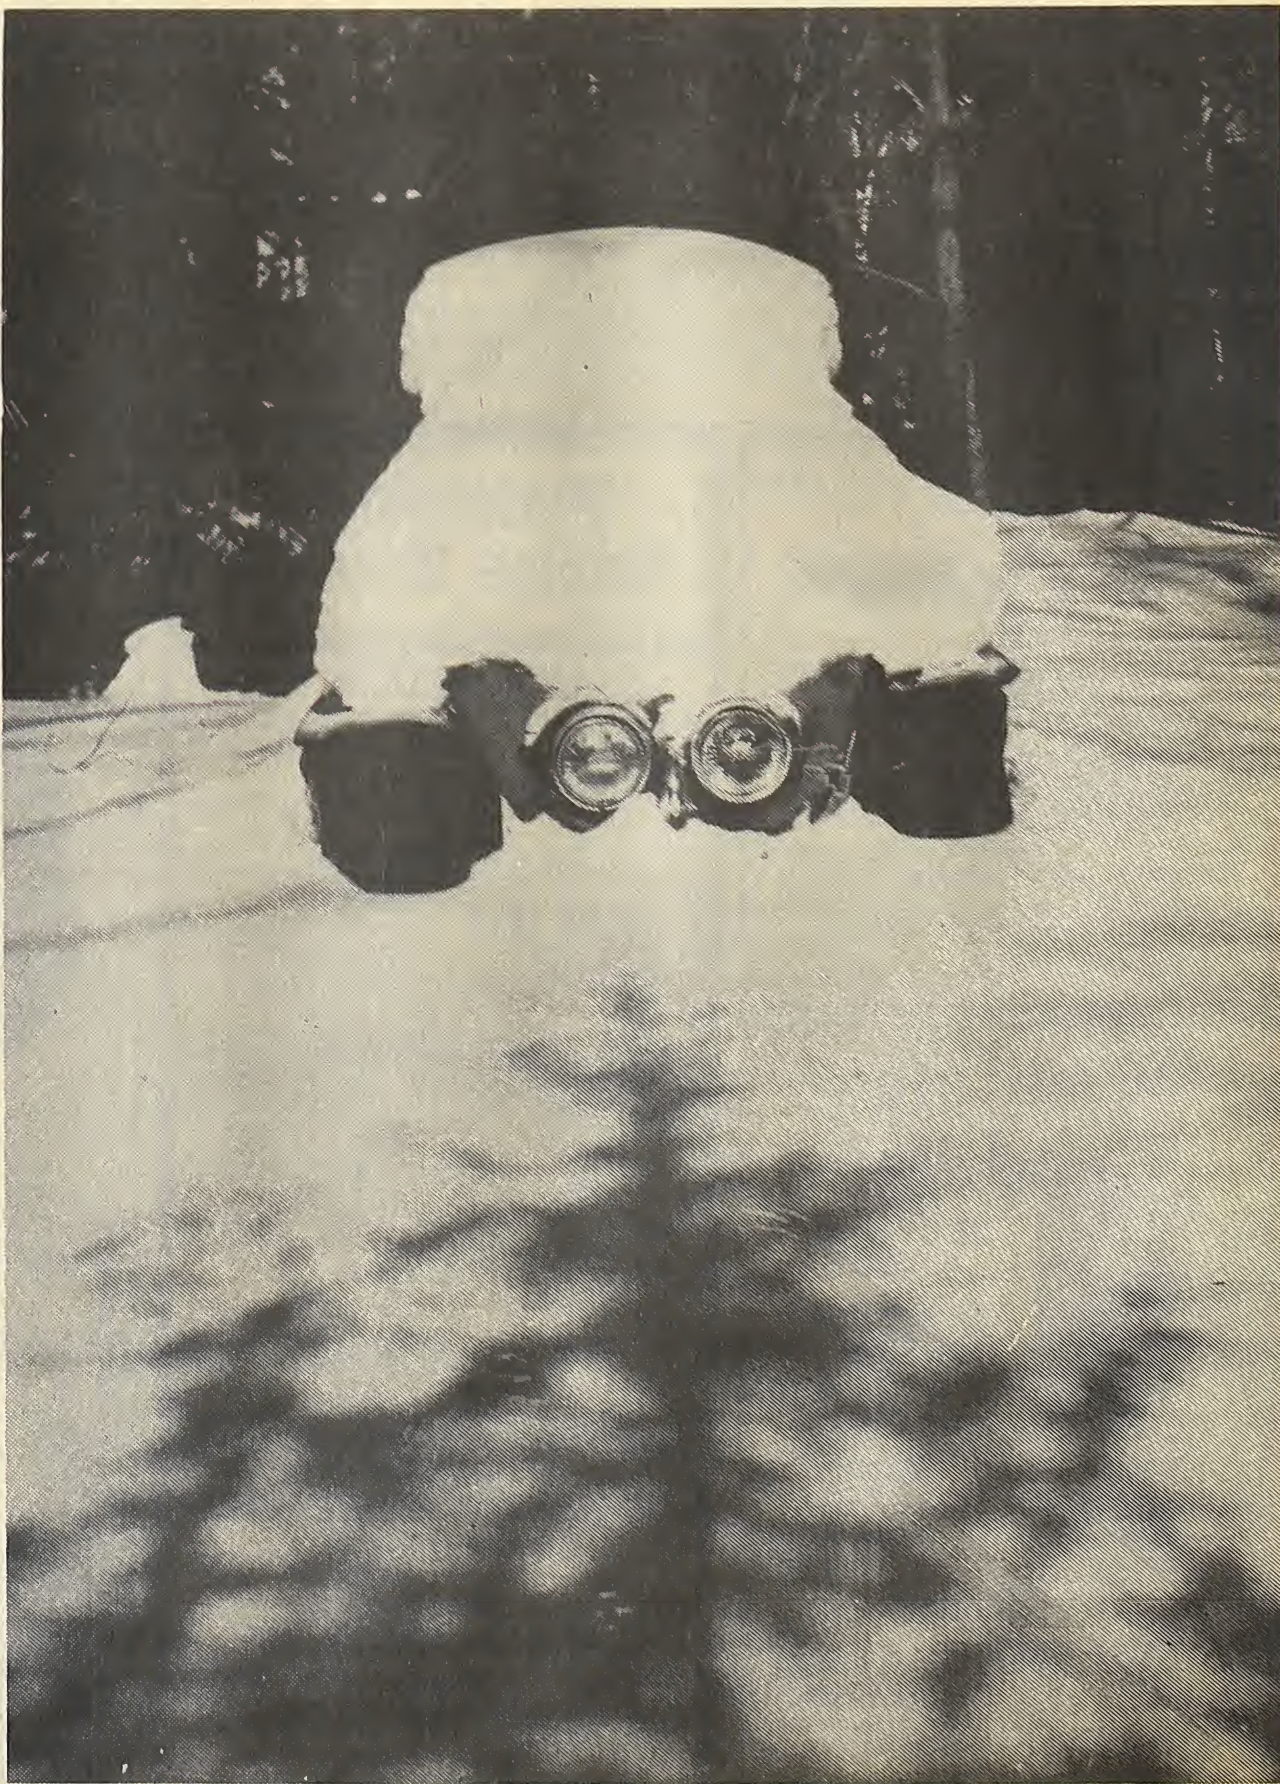

As a concerned citizen of Westland, I am opposed to any citizen using city property or city employees for their personal benefit. On February 4, 1985, I attended the City Council meeting to ask the administration the following questions:

- Who authorized the use of the sign in front of the City Hall to advertise a political fundraiser? Mayor's Ball sponsored by "Citizens United For Pickering."
- Who authorized the use of city employees to put up this announcement of a political fundraiser?
- Was the person responsible for this unauthorized use of city property and city employees disciplined?

No one from the administration would supply an answer to these questions. I wonder why?

Schools expand energy programs

Thirteen schools in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools will be getting a little more energy-wise, following approval for the drawing up of architectural designs and construction documents for projects at the facilities.

The projects are a part of the district's $3.6 million energy management program. The district last year borrowed $3.6 million as part of a new state act, which permits districts to borrow the funds for energy conservation projects and pay back those funds over a period of 10 years.

The initial round of energy projects in the district cost less than originally expected, leaving the district with an estimated $1 million that will be used to finance the energy projects proposed for the schools.

Daverman Associates, which has the task of developing the architectural designs and construction documents for the entire project, will be working on plans for improvements to Jefferson, Lincoln, Madison, Vandenburg, Taft, Roosevelt and Edison Elementary Schools, Franklin, Marshall and Adams Junior High Schools and Wayne Memorial High School.

The Jefferson and Lincoln improvements will include an insulated wall system at the gymnasium and kindergarten room wing, which will cost an estimated $26,000 each and have a payback in energy savings of 17.2 years.

Madison will have the areas at the transoms, sidelights and connecting corridor reglazed with 1½-inch insulated panels for a cost of $13,600, while Vandenburg will have 50 percent of its existing window openings at the classrooms, office and gymnasium sides insulated and the same proportion of windows at the corridors and gymnasium gables glazed with 1½-inch insulated panels for a cost of $14,500.

The Madison work would have a payback time of 8.8 years, with Vandenburg's pegged at 10.2 years.

Franklin Junior High would have an insulated wall panel system installed at the cafeteria and new doors, frame and hardware at the home economics room for a cost of $9,500, with Marshall to have the three large skylights at the gymnasium insulated on the inside and the existing glass skylights removed and framed for a new roofing system. Plans also call for insulating the remaining skylights at the locker rooms and corridor, for a total project cost of $7,325.

Some $55,000 in projects are being considered for Wayne Memorial High School, which would have six existing windows replaced with brick and vision glass on the south side of the new addition, enclosing the existing canopy between the old building and annex building to the south and installation of a roof-top air conditioning unit for the general offices area only.

Roofing projects proposed include portions of Marshall, Adams and Franklin Junior Highs and Taft, Hamilton, Roosevelt and Edison elementary schools. Those projects would total an estimated $542,500, almost all of the $684,625 that will be spent.

The district has figured in a five percent contingency, or $34,225, and with an architectu-

When it comes to automobiles, literally everyone is talking about Saturn, the General Motors Corporation's highly touted auto plant of the future that is looking for a home.

The automaker is being wooed by more states than most people can name offhand, and as many cities that would like the new plant and its satellite suppliers to locate in their areas.

Joining in the push to bring the plant to the State of Michigan, and possibly the Western Wayne-Southeast Oakland counties' area is the West Suburban Area Chambers of Commerce, a 14-member organization which has three of its members in the hunt for the development.

Spurred on by initial announcements that Wayne County Executive William Lucas would give the automaker some 200 acres of land at the Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise site in Westland free of charge, the group has begun gathering letters of support for locating the development in this area and providing lists of auto suppliers and service groups to show GM that what it needs to keep Saturn in operation is located close by.

The subject of the group's support of the project surfaced at its annual meeting, when Joyce Wheeler sought other communities' support of bringing the project to Westland. Wheeler, who manages the Westland Chamber of Commerce Office, made the pitch for area-wide support before two other West Suburban members — Romulus and Van Buren Township — joined the growing list of Michigan communities hoping to land Saturn.

The response from West Suburban members has been great, according to Wheeler, who pointed out that the member communities have "common goals and common problems."

By the group's estimation it represents more than 13,000 businesses in the area, and to its board's surprise, it is finding a good number of those businesses in one way or another have something to do with the auto industry.

Wheeler has found more than 100 busiessens in Westland that could be suppliers for Saturn, while neighboring Livonia has come up with more than 250 such businesses.

"They may not be that big, but they're in the business," she noted.

With several member communities vying for Saturn, feelings among some representatives that Wheeler's initial request for support of Westland as its "home" was that it would show favoritism. However, Wheeler, who chairs the group's board of directors, at a meeting this week stressed that the effort was no longer on behalf of Westland, but more on behalf of the entire state.

"I don't want anyone leaving here today thinking it's all for Westland," she explained. "As far as I'm concerned this is for the State of Michigan."

The change in plans appeared more palatable for some of the chamber representatives in attendance, who had broached the subject of favoritism, after discussions with their respective chamber boards.

A representative of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce pointed out that her board's feeling was that "as long as no other chamber in the West Suburban Area is involved, we could write the letter." Her comments changed to possibly getting a resolution of support together and approved before week's end to get that information submitted to the state prior to a Feb. 22 meeting with GM officials.

Wheeler expressed pleasure with the effort being expended by the group's member communities, adding that "whether we have a chance of getting Saturn, it's something we are here and we're trying to do something as a group."

"We're all in agreement that we want Saturn in Michigan," she added, "but if it comes to the southeast area, even southeast Michigan, all the better. It's important that we not sit on our laurels and say, 'Oh, well, we're not going to get it anyway'."

The organization will send out letters of support to those cities that request it, and the list of suppliers will be forwarded to the "powers that be" with a cover letter of explanation from the West Suburban Area Chambers of Commerce.

The group believes that list will show GM that the area is in tune with the Saturn philosophy of having "just in time" suppliers, businesses supplying needed parts for the auto manufacturing plant, situated a short distance from the facility.

"They (the automakers) themselves are not aware of these businesses," the Livonia board member pointed out. "This is the result of looking in their own backyards."

sizes, shapes and persuasions. For example, how about the guy who calls me on one of my busiest day and tells my staff, "Hi, is Dave there? This is a personal call." Well, sure enough, I fall for it, answer the phone and some person I've never heard of in my life wants to sell me an ad in some obscure publication. Or, how about the guy who tells you he can't pay his bill this week, but will mail the check Monday, for sure. Of course, the check isn't mailed until you called back and then it's not for the amount he owes.

"I'll handle it," "The check's in the mail," "Everything will be fine," "I'll call you right back," "We'll have this job done on time," and on and on: Cynicism and skepticism can easily become your constant companion if you allow it.

The lies, distortions, mistruths, misrepresentations . . . before long they become standard operating procedure and no longer come as any surprise.

Customers, employees, suppliers, salespeople, and in my case, readers, from time to time tear at me, inflict psychological damage and cause me to trust a little less. I waive from my principles, and am swayed toward meeting fire with fire, rather than with the compassion, tolerance and understanding I strive for.

Tax booklet available

Persons interested in obtaining the booklet, "The Michigan Taxpayer's Guide," can send their request to Rep. William R. Keith (D) of the state's 33rd District.

The free booklet contains the latest information on many of Michigan's tax laws, property laws, homestead property relief, home heating assistance program, energy tax credits, the single business tax and other tax-related subjects.

Requests should be sent to Keith at the State Capitol Bldg., Lansing, MI. 48909.

Some in business, I've concluded, have reconciled this chasm by attempting to simply be two different people. One during business hours, donning the coat of the blood-thirsty capitalist, there to make a profit at all costs, the end justifying the means. At home, in social situations or in church, they metamorphisize into a friendly, loving, caring individual with an apparently different set of values.

If we could all be "tough love types" evenhanded, clear-thinking, straight-talking, concerned equally for people and business interests, then perhaps the world would be a better place and the business world less threatening without becoming less challenging.

Perhaps if we could all do a better job of reconciling the person we would like to think we are with the person others think we are we could develop a more consistant code of behavior in dealing with people and situations.

I'll always think of Herb Styles when I look for an example of "how to do it right."

When I think of Herb Styles I can only hope that one day younger business entrepreneurs will think of me with the admiration and respect I feel for him. That's a lofty goal . . . but Herb Styles was a great teacher.

See you next week.

The Ladies Literary Club in Ypsilanti was the site of a recent tea hosted by the Ypsilanti Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to honor seven high school seniors.

Some 50 family members and friends were in attendance at the ceremony, which recognized the group for their leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

The high schoolers included David DiPasquale of Brimley High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russ Malicoat; Joy Fagan of Calvary Christian Academy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

James Fagan; Ronda Lilly of Faithway Baptist High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Lilly; Paula Sue Pifer of Lincoln High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pifer; Betty Richendollar of Belleville High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Richendollar; Amy Irene Young of Willow Run High School, daughter of Mrs. Thelma A. Hardesty; and Jennifer Peper of Ypsilanti High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Peper.

The students received the Ypsilanti Chapter's DAR Good Citizen pin, a Certificate of Recognition, a small American flag, a Flag code, a DAR Good Citizen pamphlet and placard, a wallet card and a small plant.

Mrs. Daniel McGuire, regent, conducted a short business meeting. The Good Citizen ceremony was chaired by Mrs. Hugh Kellas, and Mrs. Frank Hale was in charge of the tea.

Following the ceremony, Lt. Col. Miles W. Holmes, Jr. professor of military sci-

It's official - Wayne captures crown

Zebras end 12-year drought

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Managing Editor

For the first time since 1973, Wayne Memorial has produced a league basketball champion... but nobody's getting excited quite yet.

"We realize some time ago that we had the best team in the league and that if we played up to our potential we'd win the title," admitted Coach Chuck Henry. "There's been no celebration. We're just preparing for the Districts."

The Zebras clinched the Wolverine A crown last Friday with a tougher-than-expected 65-58 defeat of Wyandotte while second-place Fordson was upset by Monroe. Wayne (16-1) remains unbeaten in conference action, three games ahead of Fordson with two road games remaining on the league slate, at Monroe Friday and at Belleville Feb. 26. The Zebras will host non-league foe Ypsilanti on March 1 before entering the state playoffs.

Wyandotte refused to give ground under the boards against Wayne and virtually played the favored Zebras even for three quarters. The difference proved to be the first period, which saw the home team race to a 15-8 advantage it never relinquished.

"They (Wyandotte) did a good job of rebounding (Wayne won the battle on the boards by a slim 33-32 margin)," Henry said. "And they had a good shooting night, especially in the third quarter (hitting on 62 percent from the floor)."

Earlier in the campaign Wyandotte became the first opponent to outrebound the aggressive Zebras but still came out of the short end of a 66-50 decision. That victory may have actually put the Zebras at a psychological disadvantage for the rematch.

"When a team loses the first game, it always has the psychological advantage the second time out," Henry explained. "They know they will have to play hard to win while the other team has to fight a letdown. We'll be in the same situation Friday at Monroe because we beat them by a big score earlier in the season."

Fortunately the Zebras' one-two punch of Pollis Robertson and Howard Flowers overcame any letdown against Wyandotte to pace the winners. Robertson matched his season scoring average with 20 points and hauled down 12 rebounds while Flowers added nine field goals for 18 points. Norm Erickson also netted nine field goals and Kevin Kowalski had 16 points for the losers.

Wayne's junior varsity will travel to undefeated Monroe at 6 p.m. Friday in the preliminary to the varsity contest. Shawn Crenshaw leads the squad (14-3 on the season) with an 18 point scoring average.

Piazza signs with Saginaw Valley State

By KEITH A. DeMOLAY
ANP Special Writer

Since 1979, the football program at Westland John Glenn, under the direction of head coach Chuck Gordon, has produced at least one player who has gone on to play college football.

The 1984 Rocket football squad will continue that string with the announcement last week that two-time ANP All-Area kicker Chris Piazza has signed his national letter of intent with maining in the first half, but he will be remembered for his consistency and booming kicks.

The 5-8, 154-pound kicker set school records for field goals in a career (9), tied the record for the most in a season (5), and booted 35 of 40 points-after in his two-year varsity career. His varsity total for points was 62 and once hit 29 consecutive points-after during his Junior Varsity season.

Inkster hosts Middle School cage tourney

The finals of the first Middle School Basketball Tournament, featuring Inkster, Robichaud, Highland Park and Willow Run, will be played Thursday (tomorrow) at Fellrath School, 29193 Beech in Inkster.

Winners of the two games scheduled yesterday will square off for the title at 5 p.m. while the losers in the first-round competition play at 3:30. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Inkster, coached by Freddie Parker, has lost only one time during the past three years in middle-school action. Its squad is paced by Marcus Kewley and Anthony Hardy.

Romulus is a 'perfect' cage champ
Eagles stop stubborn Truman for title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Fighting off a stubborn Taylor Truman which refused to quit, Romulus won a crucial 49-41 decision to claim its first Metro-West Conference basketball championship.

With its offense sputtering, Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagles played "near flawless defense" to pull out their sixth conference win in as many starts.

"I hate to say this but we were not mentally ready for this game," Wilkerson said afterwards. "We were flat on offense and our defense pulled us through."

Leading by a narrow 9-7 margin, Romulus increased its advantage of 25-19 at intermission before Truman came back in the second half and outscored their visitors 12-10 in the third period. Although Romulus built up a 48-35 lead with three minutes left in the game, Truman outscored the Eagles in the final minutes 6-1 to close the gap.

"We had our problems on offense, and it was the defense that came through for us."

Juan Street led the winners with 15 points, one more than center, Terry Mills, who collected 14. Mills however was busy on the boards where he hauled down 14 rebounds, was credited with eight assists and had nine blocked shots.

Earlier in the week the Eagles turned back an always tough opponent, Highland Park, 66-58. Guard Steve Glenn helped break open a close game — the Eagles were ahead only by two, 13-11, after the first period — by tossing in 10 of his 21 points in the second period.

Leading 33-23 at halftime, Romulus hit a cold spell in the third period that enabled the Parkers to close within seven points (49-42), but the visitors never caught up.

Mills turned in one of his finest over-all performances of the season as he came up with 22 points and Glenn added 21. Ken Jones did an exceptional job on defense as he held Highland Park's prolific scorers Lymon DePriest and Phil Cooper to four and 10 points, respectively.

Belleville unveils its best in victory over Lincoln Park

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville displayed its best offensive punch of the 1984-85 basketball campaign and kayoed Lincoln Park Friday night 82-37 to earn its second Wolverine "A" Conference victory in 11 outings.

Coach Leon Birdyshaw's Tigers, backed by sophomore guard, Chris' Grantham's eight points, leaped to a 20-7 first period lead and never looked behind. They went on to outscore the Railsplitters 27-10 in the next eight minutes and sealed the victory.

"It was not only our best offensive showing this season," commented Birdyshaw afterwards, "but our full-court press was at its best. The kids are coming around. We're very young — with two sophomores in the line-up — so this definitely a team of the future."

Grantham was only one of three Tiger cagers who provided balanced scoring. The sharpshooting guard had 17 and a handful of assists, but was second to teammate Ladion Tait, the high scorer for the evening. Tait put together six field goals and 12 of 18 at the foul line for a game high 24 points. Lewis Willis chipped in with 14.

Belleville will wind up the regular season before the home crowd. The Tigers will next face Fordson in a game set aside for "homecoming" Friday night. On Tuesday, league champ, Wayne memorial, invades the Tiger lair and a week from Friday the curtains will come down on the 1985 league season as Trenton comes to town.

'We have two sophomores in this starting line-up. And, believe me, this is definitely a team of the future.'

Trenton overcame an early 8-4 deficit to turn back the improving Belleville quintet 72-65 in a make-up game.

Belleville's problems came in the form of Bob Shenton, a fast-moving "deadeye" who rattled the Tiger nets for a team-high 23 points.

Trailing by 12 at halftime (42-30), Belleville came out shooting behind Grantham, and managed to pull within four points before Trenton put on a spurt that left the Tigers far behind. Belleville outscored their rivals 18-10 in the third period, entering the final frame trailing 52-48. Trenton took command of the situation on with a 23-17 final wedge.

Grantham led all scorers with 24 and teammate Wesley Currie added 10, while Willis finished with 12.

"We hit a cold spell midway in the second period which costs us," Birdyshaw noted. "In the hustle to catch up, we make crucial mistakes."

Rockets do well at meet

Westland's John Glenn High School Coach Larry McConnell took 14 sophomores to the 1985 Chelsea Freshman/Sophomore swim invitational over last weekend.

And McConnell was pleased with the results.

John Jensen anchored the team's efforts with two gold medals. He out-distanced the field with a 2:07.9 in the 200 Individual medley, and 5:10.8 in the 500-freestyle.

Allen White was second in the 100 back (1:05.3) and fourth in the 50 Free (24.9).

David Hewitt was second in the 100 Free (56.5) and fifth in the 50

Free (25.1). Brian Van Stipdonk was sixth in the 100 Breast (1:15.8). The team of Allen White, Brian Van Stipdonk, John Jensen, and David Hewitt placed 2nd in the 200 Medley Relay with a time of 1:55.3.

Coach Mark Winfrey said he was pleased with John Glenn's strong showing, since the sophomores will only get better in the next two years.

His favorite Piston

Meeting his favorite Piston, John Long, is Joshua Flaig of Belleville, who got the opportunity to visit the Piston locker room and was given an autographed basketball. Joshua represented the McDonald's at 2193 Rawsonville Road in Belleville.

Inkster zeroes in on all of SAC cage crown

Vikings clinch share with victory over Robichaud

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When you're seated in first place with an untarnished record and are three games up on your closest rival, you can sit back and relax, right? Wrong.

Just ask Inkster coach George Thompson Jr. whose Vikings won a hard-fought 72-68 victory Friday night over natural rival, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, before a turn-away crowd of more than 2,000 fans.

With their seventh win in seven Suburban Athletic Conference starts and with their closest rival, Willow Run, with three defeats attached to their SAC record, the Vikings can breathe easy one would think.

"No way," says Thompson. "We still have Ecorse, Willow Run and Highland Park to play and all three of those teams can do us in if we relax. We can't afford to take it easy or, believe me, the roof can come down on us."

And Inkster, because of make-up games has to play six games over a span of two weeks. The schedule could take its toll.

Last night the Vikings were to take on Waterford Mott, then on Wednesday, they have a make-up with Willow Run on the Flyers' court. They will host the Red Raiders of Ecorse on Friday. (Another sell-out crowd is expected for that one).

Inkster had its hands full against Robichaud, a team that refused to buckle against the undefeated Vikings. "We played well," said Thompson, "but Robichaud also did. It was a hard-fought contest."

Up by four at the end of the first period, Inkster turned a 18-14 first period advantage to a 35-29 margin at halftime. Getting an excellent all-around performance from Anthony White and Sherard Lloyd, the Vikings managed to hang on to their slim lead until 2:35 in the final period when Robichaud countered with an incredible performance at the free throw line where they made 14 of 16 offerings. They also managed to take a momentary lead, 65-64.

But Shawn Lloyd came right back for the hosts and pumped in a jumper to lift the Vikings out in front for good.

Robichaud's uncanny performance at the free throw line in the final eight minutes kept the outcome of the game in doubt.

The Bulldogs finished with 20 of 23 charities.

Robichaud got 19 points from Galbraith who sparked the Bulldog attack. Also in double scoring figures were Walker, with 15, Dennis McIntosh, 14, and Carreathers 10.

Airborne for '2'

With Robichaud's Dennis McIntosh (31) setting up the road block, Inkster's Anthony White (44) soars for the Bulldog basket and this layup that netted him two of his 19 points. Inkster kept its league record untainted as it scored a 72-68 victory over their natural rivals for their seventh SAC win in as many starts.

Regionals are on Saturday

Area reaps 20 medals

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With four of them earning gold medals, 20 local high school wrestlers who survived the tough Bedford Temperance Class A District Wrestling Tournament will compete on Saturday at the Carlson Regional.

Bedford, the defending Class A state champ, retained its district title, and will be competing for an unprecedented third straight state crown. Bedford garnered 195 points at the district it hosted and was followed in the final standings by unbeaten Wolverine "A" Conference champ, Belleville, which had 144.

Trailing the top teams were: Carlson (143), Romulus (117), Wayne Memorial (101), Westland John Glenn (89½), Ann Arbor Huron (64), Edsel Ford (52), Adrian (40), Monroe (39½), Trenton (32), Ann Arbor Pioneer (24), Ypsilanti (19), Wyandotte (19), Dearborn (18), Woodhaven (18), Lincoln Park (15), Fordson (9), and Southgate (6).

Belleville qualified seven members of its club for Saturday's regional including district champ Darrell Elder who captured the gold at 155 by edging Bedford's Kent Nanney, 6-5. He heads for the regionals with an outstanding 41-2 won-lost record.

Coach Gerald Malecek also had four runners-up: Bruce Nigg (105), Mike Beckley (126), Bob Tansey (167) and Doug Chapman (185) and the Tigers finished third with John Ritchey (112) and fourth with James Ritchey (119).

The top four wrestlers in each of the 13 weight classes qualified for regionals. From the regional, the top four will compete at state to be held a week from Saturday at Grand Valley State College.

Malecek was satisfied with his team's performance at Bedford. "Our goal was to finish no lower than second with the team, and we accomplished this. And I also figured that we would qualify seven for the regionals and that also happened."

Beckley broke the school record for pins when he carded his 26th victory by a fall. He reached his goal at the district.

The 20 area qualifiers will be tested at the Class A regional on Saturday at Carlson.

Vince Morris will lead the Romulus delegation to the Carlson regional. The 167-pound senior won a gold medal by beating Belleville's Tansey on a 3:35 pin to boost his personal record to 44-3 on the season.

Coach Wayne Schimming's Eagles also had a pair of runners-up in heavyweight Tracy Cline and 138-pounder John Montroy who lost a 3-1 decision to Westland John Glenn's Dan Schimansky.

Joe Mabelitini will also travel to Carlson after finishing third in the 98-pound class and teammate Jim Schlener earned a third place medal at district's in the 126 pound class.

"I am really satisfied at what our kids did at the district," said Schimming. "It is one of the toughest district's in the state."

Schimansky and 126-pounder,

Dan Gibson gave the Westlanders their two gold medals. Gibson, ranked among the top choices to win state, overpowered Mike Beckley 15-2 in the finals.

Schimansky, a junior, earned his gold by beating Montroy, 3-1, in the finals. He disposed of top-seed Mike Regnier of Bedford in three minutes for his key match of the evening.

Coach Tom Buckalew will also have 98-pounder Daryl Hooley, a sophomore, at the Regional. Hooley finished fourth at district's.

Wayne Memorial produced one champ from its ranks. He's 132-pounder Ed Fowler.

The Zebras placed second in the 145-pound class with Dave Shareef, while they had three third place finishers with Rob Eeles (105), Tim Mitchell (138), and Tim Mulroy.

"Considering the caliber of competition at the district," said Wayne Coach John Wood, "I feel we fared well."

Defending champ Glenn in 'must' game at Garden City

By KEITH A. DeMOLAY
ANP Special Writer

Last week, it was Ron Taig. This week, it was Phil Koeller who led the Rockets of Westland John Glenn on a rampage as they defeated Belleville, 76-54, and Northwest Suburban League rival Redford Union, 91-62.

The two victories gave the Rockets a four-game winning streak, raising their overall record to 10-7. But, more importantly, the Rockets kept themselves in position for a run at the league title with a 6-2 record, one game behind Garden City (7-1).

And they will have a chance to do something about it Friday in what promises to be a barnburner at Garden City's "infamous arena."

"I think we're ready. We've built up momentum for them. We've played well. They play tough in their own gym, but we beat them there last year," said Glenn coach Gordie Davis.

But the Rockets put an end to the Tigers' hopes with a 22-9 burst was indeed a week that he will remember a long time. The 6-foot, 155-pound senior guard started his storied week with a 20-point barrage against the Belleville Tigers, a team the Rockets nearly ran out of the gym with an 11-0 burst in the first quarter.

Scott Winfrey, who according to Davis, is "shooting well", hit a three-point play at the 5:05 mark to cap the burst but the Rockets continued to build their lead throughout out the first half. It reached 28-12 at the 5:23 mark of the second quarter when Gerry Diette-Spiff knocked in a shot.

Then Belleville made their move to get back in the game. Led by Chris Grantham's 10 points and Laidon Tait's bucket at the 3:06 mark, the Tigers cut the lead to 30-22 and left the court at half time trailing only 35-22. Grantham finished the evening with 18 points.

But the Rockets put an end to the Tigers' hopes with a 22-9 burst led by six points from Koeller and Mike Baydarian. Taig continued his fine play with 5 points, including three free throws.

The Rockets emptied their bench in the fourth quarter as everyone played, including Andy Grazulis, who was recently called up from Junior Varsity, and who delighted his fans with a bucket.

Koeller scored his 20th point at the 2:20 mark of the fourth period to make it 67-47 and Glenn had their ninth win of the season.

The Rockets picked up right where they left off three nights later as Glenn built a 24-4 first quarter lead against Redford Union. More specifically, Koeller was hot again as he hit 8 points, including a lay-up at the 1:10 mark that gave them their 20-point margin.

Glenn continued to build that lead to 30-8 early in the second period on Dave Jensen's 2 free throws.

If Koeller was hot, Baydarian was hotter connecting on seven straight shots that gave him 14 points for the half. He finished with 19 for the game, along with 9 assists.

"I think our guards are playing

Coach Davis has his Rockets working on all five cylinders as he prepares for the rematch against Garden City on Friday. The Westlanders must win.

as well as any pair of guards we've had in quite awhile," said Davis.

To bear that out further, Koeller also produced nine assists along with his 23 points which meant he accounted for 41 of the team's 91 points.

Redford Union closed the gap to just 15, 44-29, at the half, as Gary Walters hit 8 points and Pat Lowney came off the bench to score 10.

But Glenn came out in the third period, led by Koeller's 13 points, to establish a 65-44 lead.

"He's doing a great job of finishing off our fast break. His passing has been great," said Davis of his guard who has tallied 16, 16, 20, and 23 points in his last four games.

But Davis also singled out the play of the entire team as a key to the recent surge to four straight wins. "Winfrey, Ron Taig, and Andy Grazulis as well as Steve Hawley have all been consistent and playing team ball."

Coach Gordie Davis, who has his team running on all cylinders heading into the Garden City game, emptied his bench in the fourth period. Every player on the roster scored, including Bob Beaver, who got his first bucket of 1984-85. Grazulis scored 8 points off the bench as the Rockets completed the game with a 26-15 final quarter of action.

Glenn's JV squad continued to shine, posting two victories this week to raise their record to 15-2 including a 59-45 victory over RU behind 12 points from Dan Liedel, 10 from Ken Barnhill and 7 from Rod Killingbeck.

what's that sound?
... by steve o'leary

Better late than never
Here's '84 at a glance

Some people find it really hard to write "best of" or "worst of" lists, always afraid of offending someone by omission (or by inclusion).

OK, so some people get mad at what you write. So what. When a thug once approached me about something I had said about a local band that he didn't care for he slobbered out a drunken "So what makes what you say in the newspaper so *##@# important?" My reply was simple. "Because I write a column and you don't." He looked confused for awhile, as if trying to figure out the beer/zen meaning of my words. What I'm saying is, don't take this too seriously. I do my best to relay what I like, what I think would make decent fodder for swine, and what's pretty good to my way of thinking but maybe not worth the hefty price tags now a reality in the record business. In other words, try'em before you buy 'em.

Anyway ...
BEST ALBUM: (TIE) "Reckoning," by R.E.M. and "Let It Be" by the Replacements; while R.E.M. has perfected their own original sound that is as accessible as it is aesthetically virtuous. There are at least six should-have-been hit singles here.

The Replacements, on the other hand, are not exactly what one would call a technically perfect group. More often than not, a song ends just because they seem to have run out of room; everyone seems to hit a wrong note and tha-tha-tha-that's all, folks. Oh, I almost forgot. It's also one of the very best albums to be released in years. Honest.

RIPOFF OF THE YEAR: With a doubt, it was the prices for the Michael Jackson so-called "Victory" tour. $50 a crack, eh? Beware the inevitable backlash.

ODDITY OF THE YEAR: Prince. After making himself first a sex god, then a teen saviour, he turned inward as his bodyguards turned out, punching anyone even near the man himself and ending up in jail. When Lionel Richie formed a giant supergroup for a "Band Aid" type gig to raise money for starving Africans, Prince reportedly refused (he definitely was not there) citing "better things to do." Everyone from Michael Jackson to Bob Dylan to Cyndi Lauper to Tina Turner had time, though.

BEST LIVE SHOW: A sleeper here folks. Former Dylan/Mick Ronson crony T-Bone Burnett put on a spectacular three-hour show at Ann Arbor's much missed Second Chance. Reports of excellent bootleg tapes of this incredible show are absolutely true.

BEST "B" SIDE OF 45: Aztec Camera takes the gold for a one-man acoustic rendition of Van Halen's "Jump." Runner Up: R.E.M. for a slew of great B's, from "King Of The Road" to another in their never-ending Lou Reed/Velvet Underground songbook.

COMEBACK OF THE YEAR: Lou Reed, a legend of rock, has made it back to the top with "New Sensations," a heck of a good album, much of it even topping the great single, "I Love You Suzanne." Yep, it seems being back on RCA Records and a normal married life has brought new strength to one of the greatest musical poets this country has ever generated.

OVERCRITICIZED MEDIA OF THE YEAR: MTV. Not nearly as bad as anyone says it is. It isn't possible to be that bad. It's OK, really it is.

CONCEPT ALBUM OF THE YEAR: "Teenage Tragedy" by Rhino Records, who are used to this kind of brilliance. A collection of the ever popular "death" songs, this package includes such classics as "Tell Laura I Love Her," "Dead Man's Curve" ("the last thing I remember, doc ...), "Leader of the Pack" and a new one by genre-jumper Julie Brown (and it's a winner) called "Homecoming Queen's Got a Gun."

The, ahem "best" song here is one that I remember being played a lot locally. It's "I Want My Baby Back," and features the singer, post crash saying ...

And over there was my baby. And over there was my baby. And WAAAAAY over there was my baby ...

BEST COMEDY ALBUM: No contest here, it's Firesign Theatre's grammy contestant "Three Faces Of Al," starring Nick Danger, Third Eye.

BIGGEST STYLE SETTER IN ROCK: This honor, easily the most prestigious, goes this year to Madonna, who's sexiness oozes from the stage and television. That may have been an influencing factor. All that and she's from the Detroit area, too.

THE EGO STRIKES TONIGHT AWARD for stupidity goes to former Romantics drummer Jimmy Marinos whom it is said, didn't even need a plane to fly from port to port — he just flew his ego. Happening soon after the incredible success of "Walking In Your Sleep," Marinos left to pursue his first love (try not to laugh!) heavy metal! The old Romantics tune "one in a million" now has some special meaning for Marinos and his 20 pounds of lion-like hair.
